

Other meaning for Sugar Glider

Sugar Glider

Is a kind of squirrel
In the nature they live in the trees

- The sugar glider is a small arboreal marsupial that is found in the forests of Australia, as well as in Tasmania, New Guinea.
- Sugar gliders are so named for their preference for sweet foods and their ability to glide through the air like a flying squirrel.

In captivity, sugar gliders are kept in large bird cages or aviaries.

The sugar glider is fast becoming a popular household pet in North America.
