

The Banger and Mash Cone

Aunt Bessie's (a British company which produces frozen foods like sausages and pies) has come up with an interesting new invention – The Banger and Mash Cone!

During the summertime in Britain, you will often see ice-cream vans. These are special vehicles that drive around the towns and cities and stop now and then to sell ice cream to queues of children.

The most famous kind of ice-cream sold from these vans is called a "99". It is made up of a cone, vanilla ice-cream, strawberry-flavoured sauce and a stick of chocolate called a "flake". It looks like this...

Recently in Britain, we have had a lot of very cold summers and so people don't want to eat so much ice cream. The people who work at Aunt Bessie's came up with the idea of the Mash Cone as a fun idea, based on traditional ice-cream cones but savoury.

The cone seems like a normal ice-cream, until you look more closely! Instead of ice-cream, you will see that it is mashed potato, and instead of a stick of chocolate, there is a sausage! The whole thing is finished off with gravy and a few peas.

What do you think about the Mash Cone? Would you like to try it?
